REWARDED FOR SAVING TRAIN

Man who Saved Excursion Train to Gettysburg on Memorial Day of Last Year Recognized by Carnegie Hero Commission.

For saving an excursion train to Gettysburg from running onto a burning trestle on Memorial Day 1910, Thomas L. Waters, of near Waynesboro, has received from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission the sum of $300 in cash. He has been notified that he will receive, also a silver medal for his services to humanity.

About 11 a. m. on Memorial Day 1910, Mr. Waters discovered that the trestle on the Western Maryland Railroad at Prices Church, not far from Waynesboro, was on fire. He endeavored to put out the blaze and worked at this with a lot of energy. In a short time he heard the approach of a train and redoubled his efforts to extinguish the flames.

He failed to accomplish this and then, to save the trainload of people, abandoned his work, started up the track toward the train and his signals of alarm stopped it just at the beginning of the trestle.

The train was a heavy excursion special bound for Gettysburg and the Memorial day services here. Except for Mr. Waters' discovery of the flames and his signaling of the train, it is altogether probable a very disastrous accident would have occurred.

Hon. B. F. Welty, of Waynesboro, by whom Mr. Waters was employed for a long time, made known the facts to the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission and as a result Mr. Waters received the $300 and will be given a silver medal.

Mr. Waters is originally from Frederick. His father was the late John C. Waters. A brother, Charles Waters, Esq., is a practicing attorney at the Frederick bar.

The recipient of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission's bounty is a widower. He has one daughter, Mrs. James Mitchell, in Baltimore. An uncle lives at Thurmont.

For many years he was in the employ of Hon. B. F. Welty, at Linden Mills, south of Waynesboro. Recently he has been working on the farms and in the orchards in the vicinity of Midvale.

The money he has received from the hero fund commission he has deposited in a Frederick bank.

TWO WEDDINGS

Two marriages were solemnized Tuesday morning at Conewago Chapel. At a nuptial high mass at 6 o'clock, Rev. A. W. Brandt officiating, Miss Annie Lopper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Topper, and Francis Schuchart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schuchart, were married. Both parties live in the vicinity of the church. They were attended by Edward Schuchart, brother of the groom, and Miss Annie Huffnagle, of near that place.

Miss Anastasia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Smith, of near Irishtown, and Aloysius Klunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klunk, of McSherrystown were married at 7 o'clock, at a nuptial high mass by Rev. Germanus Kohl. The attendants were Joseph Smith, brother of the bride, and Hazel Klunk, sister of the groom.

SCHOOL BOARDS TO REORGANIZE

New School Boards All Over the County will Elect Officers on Monday. Old Boards to Pay Teachers for Institute.

All of the public school boards chosen at the November election will organize on next Monday by electing officers for the next seven months. The elections will be effective until the first Monday in July, the beginning of a new fiscal year, when they will again organize, this time for twelve months.

Under the new school code there will be in Adams County forty less directors than before, the old number of six to a board being reduced to five and the total being cut down from 210 to 170. The two independent school districts, Conewago and Union, had their boards appointed by the Court some months ago and they will not organize on Monday.

All the old boards will hold their final meetings on Saturday at which time they will pay the teachers for their attendance at the recent institute. Every one of the 211 teachers in the county was present and each teacher is entitled to extra pay of $15.00 for the week. Two of the teachers were prevented by Providential causes from being present at the last morning's session but otherwise the attendance record was perfect. This information has been furnished by Superintendent Roth to the various boards.

Prof. Roth has mailed checks to the secretaries of all the school boards and they will be filled out after the organization Monday, one blank to be returned to the superintendent's office and another to be sent to the State Department of Public Instruction.

At the time the School Code agitation was on, there was a provision which did not allow the boards to elect one of their members as treasurer. There was much opposition to this, however, and now, as before, the treasurer may be a member. Where the present treasurer is re-elected there will be no necessity for auditing accounts before the end of the fiscal year but the boards which elect new treasurers will have to have the retiring treasurers' books audited at once.

REED SEEKS MINISTER

William Reed sentenced to death for killing Sarah Mathias at Mont Alto sent a message to the Rev. J. W. Yohe, pastor of the United Brethren Church at Fayetteville, requesting that he call upon him on Sunday. Mr. Yohe visited him Sunday afternoon and found him very penitent.

Reed had not infrequently attended preaching services by Mr. Yohe at Mont Alto and has had a long acquaintance with him. He gave close heed at Sunday's interview to Mr. Yohe and told him he spent many hours each day reading his Bible.

In speaking to Mr. Yohe Reed said he looked forward with confidence to the Supreme Court granting him a new trial but even should that fail he had the hope that an appeal to the pardon board for clemency would result in commutation of his sentence to imprisonment for life. It is understood that his attorneys will at once appeal to the pardon board if a new trial is refused by the Supreme Court at its sitting on January 1.

W. H. HEAGY

W. H. Heagy died Tuesday afternoon at his home on Steinwehr avenue, aged 79 years, 2 months and 9 days.

PLANS TO RAISE THE ENDOWMENT

Methods of Raising Gettysburg College's Endowment Fund Outlined in Pamphlet Published by President Granville.

President Granville has published an attractive pamphlet regarding the raising of the $300,000 endowment fund for Gettysburg College, outlining the methods to be used and giving much interesting data in this work which is of so great moment to the local institution. The pamphlet says among other things:

The General Education Board (Rockefeller Foundation) has promised to contribute $50,000 to the permanent endowment funds of Gettysburg College when the alumni and friends of the institution fulfill the following two conditions:

They must secure $150,000 in cash or valid subscriptions for the endowment fund before July 10, 1912. As $35,000 of this was provided for when college opened this fall and the heirs of P. H. Glatfelter, of Spring Grove, Pa., have generously subscribed $25,000 more, there remains $90,000 to be raised in cash or in subscriptions payable in not more than five equal annual installments, all such subscriptions to be due and payable not later than July 31st, 1917.

The debt of $30,000 now resting on the College must be paid before July 10, 1913.

To recapitulate, there now remains to be raised in cash or subscriptions $90,000 for the endowment fund and $30,000 in cash for the payment of the college debt, or a total of $120,000 in cash and subscriptions by July 10, 1913, in order to secure the $50,000 promised by the General Education Board. When these conditions are satisfied there will be $280,000 added to the assets of the College, $200,000 in new endowment and a $80,000 debt paid. This will free the College from a very burdensome debt and more than double its endowment.

The following methods are proposed to raise the new endowment and the money for the payment of the college debt:

By soliciting large contributions from wealthy men and women both inside and outside of the college constituency.

By securing subscriptions from every living alumnus and all friends of the institution.

By the co-operation of District Synods of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church. At its last meeting the West Pennsylvania Synod directed that a committee be appointed to plan for the securing of funds within its territory for the purpose of endowing a chair in Gettysburg College to be named the West Pennsylvania Synod Professorship.

By securing endowment on the annuity plan. For instance, a widow may transfer her property in whole or in part to the College on condition that she receives thereon during her lifetime.

By bequests. News has been received that the Baltimore Gettysburg Club at its meeting last week started a movement for securing money for the new endowment from Baltimore.

DEER SEASON GOOD

State Game Commission reports indicate that the deer season, which will end on the night of Thanksgiving Day, will be fully up to the average in most of the good hunting grounds of the state and in a number of counties will go ahead of last year. In spite of stories that the "kills" have not been as numerous as in former years and that deer are not increasing, Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, of the State Game Commission, says that there has been excellent hunting and that the reports received when the hunters come out of the woods will prove it.

Dr. Kalbfus has been in a dozen counties where there is good deer hunting and says the number of bucks killed will not run behind last year's record.

The plover and woodcock seasons will also close on Thanksgiving Day.

TAFT'S MESSAGE WILL BE ON TRUSTS

Federal Incorporation Will be His Remedy.

Washington, Nov. 29. — President Taft's third annual message, which goes to Congress Tuesday, will be devoted to the "trust question," and it is intimated that a federal incorporation law will be advocated.

The message contains from 5000 to 6000 words, and with the exception of a few references in a general way to other related subjects, will deal with the question of industrial combinations alone.

Although details of the message were not made public, it was understood that federal incorporation, as outlined by Mr. Taft two years ago, will be suggested again as a method for solution of the problem. The president has indicated his aversion to amendment of the Sherman anti-trust act, and from his talks with callers the inference was drawn that there is no suggestion of such amendment in the message.

"I've put all my eggs in one basket," the president said to callers.

In sending an annual message to Congress devoted to one subject alone
the president is establishing a precedent. It is usual for the chief executive to point out the need of all sorts of legislation and to give in a brief form the history of the past year so far as the government is concerned. This will be done away with in the present message and later on Mr. Taft will send special messages to Congress dealing with important subjects.

The president expects to discuss the tariff in a separate message to be written after Dec. 12. The tariff board, it was said, will not be able to make its report on the wool and cotton schedules until then and the message will not be undertaken until that report is ready.

Black Hand Takes Vengeance on Man
Who Refused to Give $10,000.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—Because he refused to meet the demands of the Black Hand and place $10,000 in a spot designated in a number of letters he had received during the past year, the store and residence of Joseph Morrisana, at Millerstown, a suburb, were blown to pieces by dynamite.

The Millerstown schoolhouse was damaged $2000, and other buildings in the place, including the postoffice suffered to the extent of $2000.

Morrisana, who is the wealthiest Italian in Patton township, estimates his loss at $5000. He and his family narrowly escaped death. County detectives are looking for two men seen near the Morrisana house before the explosion.

SHERMAN ACT NOT CLEAR

President of Civic Federation Declares Trade Agreements Should Be Regulated Rather Than Prohibited.

Washington, Nov. 29. — Seth Low, president of the National Civic Federation and former mayor of New York, gave to the interstate commerce committee of the senate his personal views as to the best methods for controlling trusts.

He urged the federal license of all incorporated corporations, giving them permission to incorporate with a settled charter if they so desired. He suggested the appointment of a federal trade commission to look after the organization and the acts of companies operating in more than one state.

"The tendency to combination in trade agreements is universal," said Mr. Low. "The government is undertaking the impossible if it tries to prevent them."

He expressed the belief that many trade agreements, limiting output, were in the public interest and should be regulated rather than prohibited.
Mr. Low said the government should,
above all things, try the light of publicity on corporations.

"In many institutions," he said,
"the big safes are guarded not by a watchman, but an electric light. I think that should be an object lesson to the American government."

Mr. Low gave to the committee the result of a poll of 1006 manufacturers, merchants and bankers as to what additional anti-trust legislation was necessary. Of this number 841 declared that the Sherman law, as now interpreted, was not "clear and workable," and 881 declared it not feasible to return to competitive conditions in American trade and commerce.

A federal incorporation act was favored by 757 and opposed by 191; the repeal of the Sherman law was favored by 102 and opposed by 962.

"I see no advantage in breaking up the United States Steel corporation," said Mr. Low. "It never ought to have been formed, but now that it is in operation, the breaking up of the corporation will give to the large holders of stock the chance to make money at the expense of the small holders."

Asked by Senator Cummins whether he favored governmental regulation of prices, or the permission of price agreements, Mr. Low said that it was better to sanction an agreement for a price of $28 a ton on steel rails than to permit the steel corporation to put the price so low as to drive every one else out of business.

ARREST THREE FOR BRIBERY

Detective Says McNamara Veniremen
Received Money.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 29.—S. L.
Brown, chief of the department of investigation of the district attorney's office, arrested Bert Franklin, an ex-United States marshal, on the charge of attempting to bribe a prospective juror in the McNamara case.

Brown asserted that he had caught Franklin attempting to pass $1000 to G. N. Lockwood, summoned on the twelfth venire, and that the money was now in his possession.

"Franklin handed Lockwood $500;
White had $3500 more. This money was to be paid to him as soon as he hung the jury in the McNamara case," said Brown, shortly after the arrests were made.

"Formal charges will be lodged against these men as soon as the attorney Frederick and the men under arrest are over. I cannot now tell how I know the details of the plan, but I have the entire history of the case, and it will all come out at the proper time."

CHINESE REBELS SURRENDER

Revolutionary Leaders at Wu Chang Desire Compromise.

Peking, Nov. 29. — It has been announced here that the surrender of the rebels at Wu Chang was provisional and with a view to saving the city from destruction.

Wu Chang capitulated early in the day, the revolutionary leaders expressing a desire to negotiate for a compromise and suggesting some slight changes in the government program.

At the battle of Nankin 300 persons are reported killed. The report says that of the dead 3500 were regular soldiers, while the remaining 300 were civilians who had volunteered their services.

Lieutenant General Feng Kwo Chang, commander of the imperial troops at Hankow, telegraphed that he had occupied the whole of the city of Han Yang.

The government is endeavoring to secure an immediate cessation of hostilities at Nankin, where the fall of the city is imminent.

The revolutionaries at Hankow have asked for a three days' armistice, during which an attempt will be made to secure the consent of the other provinces to the acceptance of the imperial government's terms, including the preservation of the Manchu dynasty.

The government has received reports announcing that the fighting preceding the capture of the city of Han Yang lasted seventy consecutive hours. The carnage was heavy.

GRIEVING WIFE FREE OF MURDER CHARGE

Woman Who Shot Husband to Save His Soul Acquitted.

New York, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Frances O'Shaughnessy, the young woman who killed her husband George, to save his soul from hell, was acquitted by a jury in Judge Foster's part of general sessions, where she had been on trial for murder in the first degree.

She was acquitted on the ground of insanity and was remanded to the Tomb, to be examined to decide whether it will be safe to discharge her from custody.

Her confession was that she killed
her husband in order to save his soul from hell, and that his much to do with the verdict.

Mrs. O'Shaughnessy is twenty-four years old. Her husband was twenty-five. They had been married only a little more than a year and were looking forward to the birth of her first child, when she noticed that he was less devoted.

Once she met him on the street with Tessie Hayes, the cashier of the store where he worked, and Tessie was carrying the silver mesh-bag that George had intended to give his wife on the anniversary of their marriage.
After that George told his wife that he was infatuated with Tessie Hayes and wanted to get a divorce. Mrs.
O'Shaughnessy felt that her husband was planning to desert her and was meditating a mortal sin.

She is a Roman Catholic and was deeply religious. She thought of suicide and decided against it, as that sin might never be forgiven her. She prayed constantly for guidance, and finally she came to the conclusion that George might be saved from his terrible sin if he should die before he was fully committed to it.

On May 5 last, the day after she had found a bundle of letters under his pillow written by Tessie Hayes and showing that George intended to abandon her in England and return to Tessie, she found a revolver and took it home. When George came in and scolded at her entreaties to return to her she shot him.

FEEDING GRAIN TO WORK HORSES.

Relative Values of Corn and Oats Determined by Experiment.

The subject of a profitable and economical feed for work horses is one that interests nearly every farmer. The prevailing opinion is that there is no feed so valuable for the horse as oats. There are many people who will not use any substitute for this grain.

So many questions have been asked regarding the accuracy of this feeling that D. E. Carman began an extensive series of experiments to test the relative value of oats and corn as food for work horses. He started his work with three teams of grade Percheron geldings. These horses did general farm work. The horses in each team were about the same age. One was fed on oats and the others on corn. The plan was to feed as much oat corn by weight as oats. They were all given as much timothy hay as they would eat up clean. The experiment was conducted for twelve months. The variations in weight of the corn fed horses were practically the same as those of the horses receiving oats. There seemed to be very little difference in the strength and general temperament in the horses of each team.

Under the market conditions that prevailed during the experiment the saving from the use of corn was very marked—10 cents per day for each horse. Market conditions should always be kept in mind, since there may be times when it would be cheaper to use oats than corn.

Dairy Wisdom.

A dairy fed heifer calf from a good milking mother is worth more money at any age than is a steer calf.

Always have a great deal of respect for the bull. His best conduct is no guarantee of future gentleness. The dairy herd is a good place to invest surplus earnings. If rightly handled they can be made to pay a handsome dividend every year.

Some dairymen believe it doesn't pay to raise calves. These men are shortsighted and if they continue in the business many years will realize the folly of their policy.

The cow is a medium for the conversion of feed into milk. But she is a living, animated machine, whose personal comfort is of the greatest importance to her owner.—H. M. Gardner.

Burden Bearers in Mexico.

Strong backed laboring men take the place of moving vans in Mexico. There are huge flat trucks with four handles into which things are piled and lugged along the city streets. On moving day the household furniture may be seen paraded in full gaze of the curious from street to street to the new destination. These men are called cargadores and combine the usefulness of messenger boy and the porter of the old world. The great burdens borne thus by the strength of a single carrier are amazing. A piano will be carried along by two men on one of the strong trucks.

WHY INTERESTS SUPPORTED T. R.?

Barker Says He "Made a Bargain" With Them in 1904.

HE OUTLINES THE PLAN

Surprising Statement Made by Philadelphia Banker Before Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Wharton Barker, a retired banker of Philadelphia, sprung a sensation on the senate committee on interstate commerce when he alleged that a New York financier told him in 1904 that the financial interests would support Theodore Roosevelt for president because the latter had "made a bargain" with them "on the railroad question."

Mr. Barker's statement came in the midst of a vigorous attack on the "money trust," in which he alleged also that President Roosevelt had been given details of the impending panic of 1907 several months before it happened, but took no action to prevent it.

He declared that the Aldrich currency plan was the handiwork, not only of former Senator Aldrich, but of a Mr. Warburton, of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York, and that a fund of $1,000,000 had been started to insure its adoption.

"Three or four weeks before the election in 1904," said Mr. Barker, "I met one of the most distinguished money kings in New York, a man now dead. He said to me: 'We are going to elect Roosevelt.' I expressed surprise. He said that they had frightened Roosevelt so he had made a bargain with them."

Members of the committee looked somewhat incredulous, and Mr. Barker added:

Wished Roosevelt Was There.

"I wish Mr. Roosevelt were here," "I wish he were," said Senator Townsend; "it would be interesting."

Mr. Barker continued: "He is to tell me, but by and by a railroad bill will be brought in by recommendation of the president, cutting off rebates and free passes, which suits us who own the railroads, permitting pooling arrangements and providing for maximum rates."

The railroad man added, said Mr. Barker, that under the latter authority it would be possible to add from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 to the total freight charges paid by the American public.

"I told him I didn't believe Roosevelt made any such agreement," said Mr. Barker, "but when the annual message of 1905 went to congress he recommended most of those things. I wrote to President Roosevelt and told him what I heard. It was the only letter of mine Mr. Roosevelt ever failed to answer."

Members of the committee asked Mr. Barker to give the name of the financial man who had told him that Roosevelt was to be elected.

Letters Stolen From Harriman.

"I cannot do it," said Mr. Barker, "but subsequently somebody was alleged to have stolen some correspondence between Mr. Harriman and the president, telling of $250,000 put up for election expenses in the city of New York."

Mr. Barker said that in October, when the financial upheaval reached its crisis, he urged President Roosevelt to distribute the $145,000,000 of cash on hand in the treasury among the banks of Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other large cities.

"He wanted to do it," he said, "but he called in Mr. Knox and Mr. Cortelyou and Mr. Root, and the result was the whole amount went into Wall Street."

The Philadelphia man declared that those who backed the Aldrich monetary plan had begun a "propaganda" in which it was proposed to spend a million dollars to secure the endorsement of the proposed currency legislation.

"Monday a banker in Philadelphia started to collect that city's share of the money," $100,000, he said.

He urged a law that would compel national banks to hold their legal reserve in cash, instead of having the power to deposit part of it in the banks of New York.

SPURNED, KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF

Shoots Young Woman Who Refused to Marry Him.

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 29.—A murder and suicide of a prominent young man and girl shocked the residents of the West Side.

The principals were Miss Elmyra Koch, the pretty daughter of William Koch, and Earl Kiefer, an organist. Both live on North Seventh avenue, within one home separating their residences. It was a case of spurned love.

For nearly a year Kiefer, who was about twenty-one years old, was attentive to Miss Koch. This friendship grew into love on the part of young Kiefer, but for Miss Koch there was apparently only a platonic affection.

When Kiefer is said to have declared his love for the girl and asked her to marry him, she is said to have refused him. The refusal proved a hard blow to Kiefer.

A newspaper man just a few moments before the tragedy saw the couple standing in front of the Koch home, and as he approached heard them engaged in serious conversation, as if the young man were pleading hard with the girl to change her mind.

While the reporter was waiting for the trolley car at the corner there was a sudden flash and the bark of a revolver, followed by another and another shot—then a lull and then two more flashes.

The reporter rushed down to the house and found both the girl and the man lying in pools of blood. The girl had been shot through the face, and Kiefer, after committing the murder, turned the revolver on himself and sent a bullet into his head.

Kiefer was the organist and choir-master of St. Paul's Reformed church.

KILLED ALL IN THE HOUSE

When Wife Refused to Return Italian Killed Her, His Two Children, Two Relatives and Himself.

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 29.—Six lives were sacrificed at Lodi because of the insane jealousy of Ignazio Plescia, including his own, and all because his pretty wife refused to return to his home.

He called at the home of Sebastian Pecorino, on Union street, Lodi, where his wife and two children were staying with relatives, and killed all he found in the house.

The dead are: Mrs. Antonio Pecorino, aged seventy-eight years, the grandmother of Mrs. Plescia, shot through the heart; Mrs. Anna Pecorino, aged sixty-five years, mother-in-law of Sebastian Pecorino, shot in the head; Mrs. Concettina Plescia, aged twenty-seven years, wife of the murderer, shot in the breast and through the heart; Fedelo, seven years old, the daughter of Plescia, shot twice in the head; Ignazio Plescia, thirty years old, shot in the head a suicide.

Mrs. Plescia's husband had abused his pretty young wife ever since their marriage in New York city eight years ago. Two days ago she had him arrested for beating her. Following his arrest, Mrs. Plescia left his home on Garibaldi avenue, Lodi, and went to live with the Pecorino family, where her aged grandmother lived.

Joseph and Sebastian Pecorino conduct a barber shop and candy store in the same building in which they live. Mrs. Plescia obtained work in the Alexander dye works and was happy with her two children.

Monday Plescia met his wife and asked her to return to him and she emphatically refused to do so. She was just about to return to work on Tuesday afternoon when Plescia entered the Pecorino home. He carried bananas, which he told a local storekeeper were for his children. No one knows what argument followed after he reached the living rooms back of the barber department, for all who were there were killed.

Sebastian Pecorino was in the cellar chopping wood when Plescia entered on his murderous visit. He said: "I knew what was happening the minute I heard the shots, and, being unarmed, I hurried from the cellar and ran down the street crying the alarm. I went to Recorder Kerr's office and said my people were being murdered. When I came back to the house everybody was dead."

SEE DO-NOTHING CONGRESS

Congressman Mann Declares Democrats Have Put Country "on Blink."

Washington, Nov. 29.—Declaring that the Democrats have "put the country on the blink," Representative James Mann, Republican floor leader of the house, reached Washington and gave out a hot interview as a reply to Speaker Clark's congressional forecast.

Mr. Mann says the approaching session of congress will be a "do-nothing" congress.

"We may dawdle along here until October," he said. "The Democrats have no program in view except to tear down the protective tariff system. Their mission is destructive, not constructive."

"The trust questions are too big for them to handle, and they have no decided ideas on anything. They have already put the business of the country on the blink."

"I don't expect any definite legislation this session. We will just dawdle along for months, and we may be here until next October."

THREE INJURED IN RIOT

Westernport, Md., Sees Fighting in Streets For Two Hours.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 29.—A riot reigned for two hours at Westernport, this county.

The injured are: Michael Brennan, night policeman, head and neck cut, injured in body by kick; J. D. Kall, caught on hand and foot; Richard Stine, city councilman, cut on head, carried home unconscious.

The trouble started in a saloon where firemen were fighting. All turned on after the other. Beer bottles were broken in attacking them, and the trouble was carried to the main street. Two hours later, when Mayor Curran had organized a force of deputies, the rioters were arrested and kept at the city jail all night.

Westernport is just across the river from Piedmont, N. Va. It has had inadequate police protection ever since Piedmont has been "dry."

Killed by Jealous Husband.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 29.—Borrowing a shotgun from a kinsman, James Merritt, son of a wealthy planter, killed Adolph Layne, near Walter Hill, his home in Rutherford county. The killing was the outcome of a fight that began several months ago when Merritt wounded Layne, asserting that Layne's attentions to Mrs. Merritt were obnoxious. Merritt surrendered.

The Best Christmas I Ever Had

"We built a new house with a big pantry full of shelves. In less than a week the pantry became a nightmare. It was a 'separate' room. My kitchen work seemed endless.

Christmas morning terrified me. We had company, a big dinner and I had no help, I went into the kitchen discouraged, ready to cry—and there stood in place of my table a

Hoosier Cabinet

"My husband was at my heels and I knew by his smile that was his Christmas gift to me. In a jiffy we had flour in the bin and all the utensils where they belonged in the Cabinet. I was wildly, delightfully excited.

"Christmas dinner was easy. THE HOOSIER has saved me miles of steps every day since. I shall bless that Christmas as long as I live."

If it is not a Kitchen Cabinet then some other piece of Furniture. We have your gift

THE ORIGIN OF OUR DOMESTIC TURKEY.

While it's rather difficult to trace man to the monkey, our domestic turkey leaves plainer footprints on the sands of time, and we believe should a hunter snare and mate a Northern wild turkey gobbler and a Mexican wild turkey hen the offspring would be in blood and appearance like the first of the domestic turkey tribe, from which the present varieties come. To prove their claims discoverers always bear back curious trophies from the lands they find, so we are told that Pedro Nino (1509), among other wonderful things from the new world, bore back the Mexican wild turkey to Spain, and the Cabots or others on return to England exhibited the Northern wild turkey.

When Cortes (1518) conquered the golden land of the Montezumas he found the Mexican wild turkey in large domesticated flocks, but there is no record that Indians or early settlers bred the Northern wild turkey.

The Mexican turkey was sent from Spain to England in 1524, and the advent of this strange bird was of great interest to ancient ornithologists the Mexican so beautiful in its slivery white markings and black and the Northern magnificent in its chestnut brown, bronze and black.

Some English genius then mated a Northern gobbler and Mexican hen, and their good qualities thus coalesced in their offspring, the resulting stock was the beginning of the present domestic turkey tribe.

English settlers brought birds of the new blood back to America, the land of their nativity, to be further improved by American skill, and of the seven splendid varieties resulting the Mammoth American Bronze, the nearest to the original, is conceded by both continents to be the ne plus ultra of them all.

Conditions found on the average farm are most favorable for egg production, and the cost per dozen has been found to be approximately 8 cents.

GOOD ROADS AND THE FARMER

They Mean a Great Reduction
In His Expenses.

A SUPERVISOR IS NEEDED.

Without a Competent Man in Charge a Great Deal of the Labor is Wasted. Farmers Should Get Together and Help Highway Engineer.

It is worth while for all intelligent people to have some general idea concerning the simpler facts involved in the art and science of road building and maintenance. This is a matter which should appeal particularly to the farmer, for to him more than to any one else the well built and maintained road means a saving of time and money in marketing his products and makes easier the attendance of his children at school and his family at religious services and increases the social intercourse which is needed to make farm life what it should be. All highways are intended to afford a hard, smooth and as nearly as possible a horizontal surface, over which the great instrument of civilization, the wheel, with its burden, can be made to move with the least possible friction. Every unit of friction encountered is a measurable element of cost either in time, power or damage to the road and carriage. For every foot of distance he traverses the wagoner is incurring a tax. The amount of the tax over a properly constructed and maintained road may be as low as 5 cents per mile, but this increases with increase in grade or the condition in which the road is found. Because this tax is not paid out in actual cash to the sheriff the farmer does not realize that it is coming out of his pocket all the time, but if he will think a moment he will realize that it is an infinitely higher rate of tax than any direct tax which he may be called upon to pay to keep the wheels of civilization going.

ROAD BUILT IN 1904 AND STILL IN GOOD CONDITION.

The cash value of a good road has been summarized under the following headings:

First.—A reduction in the cost of hauling.

Second.—An increase in the value of lands within its zone of influence.

Third.—Increase in productive value through making uncultivated lands accessible.

Fourth.—The substitution of the more profitable crops for the less profitable crops.

Fifth.—The ability of the producer to market his produce at a time when the prices are more favorable instead of marketing his produce when the roads permit.

Realizing now what bad roads are costing the farmer and what good roads will mean to him, the question is how can good roads (and by good roads is meant roads which are good 365 days in the year) be obtained and maintained, for it is just as necessary to maintain a road after it is built as it is to construct it in the first instance.

It is now the consensus of opinion among men who have spent their lives studying road problems that the only sensible plan for any county or township to adopt is to set apart a portion of its money for the employment of a competent road engineer to properly locate its roads and supervise their construction and maintenance. In order, however, to have a uniform method of road construction from one county to another it is believed that the wisest policy would be for the state to have some kind of supervision over the road work of the counties and for the state to aid the counties, certainly to the extent of furnishing highway engineers for the proper location of roads. Under the present system of working the roads it is not a rash statement to say that at least one-tenth to one-fifth of the time and labor expended in public road work is absolutely wasted.

A Royal Test

By EMMA L. SHANKLIN

The king of Holland—all this happened several centuries ago—sent a messenger to his daughter, the Princess Sophia, to say to her that his majesty commanded her to come to his cabinet. When she reached it her father informed her that he had agreed to give her in marriage to the Crown Prince Carl of Prussia.

"But I have never seen the prince," she said.

"That has nothing to do with the matter," replied the king.

"If the prince wishes to marry me let him come and woo me," said the princess, and she left the room.

What action his majesty took in the matter was never known, but presently along came the crown prince of Prussia with a splendid retinue to ask the hand of the Princess Sophia. Nobody but those most interested knew what was going on except that the prince had come on an errand of marriage and that his stay was much longer than was customary on such royal occasions. There were social functions at the palace, but the crown prince of Prussia and the princess of Holland were seldom seen together.

The truth is that Sophia received her royal suitor coolly. She neither consented nor dissented from his proposition for her hand. The prince seemed to consider the affair a diplomatic one and spent his time in those diversions which occupy men alone, paying very little attention to the woman he sought for his wife.

The princess not only paid no attention to this neglect, but appeared to be infatuated with Baron von Schelwig, one of the members of the prince's suit. Von Schelwig was a very handsome man and though this was his chief attraction, he was universally acknowledged to be a lady killer.

Prince Carl did not seem to mind the princess' infatuation a bit. He hunted and skated and played cards just the same. The king of Holland, to whom the alliance was of great importance, every day dreaded that his royal highness would withdraw his application for his daughter's hand and return to Germany in high dudgeon. But Carl, who had made a formal application on his arrival, paid no further attention to the matter, apparently waiting for his reply from the government of Holland. Meanwhile, the encouragement the princess gave Von Schelwig was noticed by all the court, every one wondering how she could accept the attentions of the subordinate when the master had come to make application for her hand.

One day after a hunting party which was attended by both men and women the Princess Sophia, who had kept Von Schelwig in attendance upon her during the entire day, the hunt being finished, entered her carriage to dine at the palace. When passing through an unfrequented place she was stopped by a masked horseman, who rode up to the window and addressed the princess:

"The crown prince of Prussia, who has come to propose for your highness' hand, is sensible of the slight put upon him by your acceptance of the attentions of a member of his suit. But as a prince of the blood and a suitor for your highness' hand it is unbecoming of him to make any protest. I therefore take it upon myself to resent the insult thrust upon him. But to prevent a court scandal I deem it advisable to warn you. Know then that if Baron Von Schelwig presumes to join you hereafter at any court function I will call him to account as offering an insult to my sovereign and my prospective sovereign and shall kill him."

"Your royal highness need not be so fierce about it," said the princess. "I would not for the world jeopardize the life of the crown prince of Prussia."

"You know me?"

"I knew you the moment I heard your voice."

Carl tore off his mask with an exclamation of chagrin. Seeing the princess smiling at him, he hung his head.

"Now that I know my acceptance of your subordinate's attentions are distasteful to you, I assure you, I will not again permit them."

"I regret my action, since it will deprive you of the company of the man."

"I do not love Von Schelwig."

"Then why, may I ask, does a prince of the royal house of Holland permit the attentions of one holding the lowest rank of any of my suit?"

"That I might discover the sentiments of his master."

"My sentiments? What do you know of them, except that I have, by my father's order, proposed for your hand?"

"Was not obedience of your royal father's order sufficient? Did your duty to his majesty compel you to threaten to kill a member of your own suit, whose attentions I have permitted?"

"The slight."

"Would a duel with an inferior wipe out that slight?"

The prince knew that he had revealed the secret of his jealousy.

"Perhaps your highness will give your horse to one of my attendants and ride to the palace with me," added the princess.

Throwing himself from his horse, Prince Carl entered the carriage and the two drove on side by side.

The next day the prince and princess were formally betrothed.

A rather interesting discussion has been started in some of the dairy papers of the country on the relative influence of the dam and sire upon the butter fat production of their female offspring. One writer contends that a cow from a low test dam follows almost invariably the low per cent tendency of her dam. If there is anything in this claim it puts in rather ridiculous light the claims that have been made in the past as to the merit of dairy sires in improving the butter capacity of their offspring.

DON'TS.

Don't be cruel to dumb animals. God placed them in your care, so beware.

Don't pose as a poultry perfect. Folks quickly dispose of the fellows that pose.

Don't abuse the broody hens. Put them in an all slat crate, and their fever will abate.

Don't feed geese much grain in summer. Soft grass, water and weeds supply their summer needs.

Don't neglect breeders after hatching season. Get the surplus off before molt puts them out of condition.

Don't feed much cabbage to layers. A cabbage leaf worm in the heat will keep your bald head cool and sweet.

Don't waste feed on crippled ducklings and chicks. They are expensive nuisances and should be killed on sight.

Don't let your hens scratch in your neighbor's garden. They may find something there to pick and also get bit by a brick.

With proper care ducks will begin laying at five months without regard to the time of their being hatched.

DID WHAT SHE HOPED

It is a real pleasure to find that something you have bought is just as good as you hoped it would be, and Mrs. Charles Proper of West Scranton, Pa., writes a letter to tell others her experience. She says:

"I was all run-down and very weak, and had been so for three years. I am sure that Vinol has helped me very much, for four bottles of it have brought back my strength, which is just what I was told it would do."

When we recommend Vinol for all weak and run-down people, and those who have stubborn coughs, lack of appetite, sleeplessness and nervous conditions, we do so because we are absolutely convinced that it is just what they need. Then if Vinol does not satisfy them perfectly we give back the money. You ought to try Vinol if you wish to be strong and well for you take no risk at all. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.
